

AARON LORDSON

Recording Artist, Songwriter and Singer of Soul and Rhythm & Blues

BIOGRAPHY.

Aaron Lordson was born in Togo (West Africa) where he grew up surrounded by different forms of music.

The development of his unique style is the result of a lifetime of musical influences.

His grandfather was a composer and director of a gospel choir. Aaron was always around him during rehearsals and performances, all of which influenced his development.

Louis Armstrong was the first artist that could catch his attention during early ages. Ray Charles, Aretha Franklin and James Brown's music inspired his soul.

Aaron did not need musical school or singing classes, he plays and sings with natural talent and soulful vibration.

His first appearance on stage was during a school music festival. After his university studies and two years working as a Gynecologist, Aaron left everything for music and decided to share his arts with the "world."

His performances have been welcomed in different cities. His prodigious voice and guitar are enough to captivate the audience from the first minute his performance starts.

His songs provide a combination of his unique high range mellow voice and exciting guitar playing with a rhythmic that bears testament of his soul and gospel roots and punctuated throughout with elements of reggae, blues and rhythm & blues. So far never got a chance to be discovered by a record label, Aaron creates his own tool of promotion based on performing in the streets. Nowadays there are millions of followers and loyal fans who support him all over the globe. With his last four albums of his whole discography produced by himself under his own label "LORDSONMUSIC", Aaron become the world first street musician to reach a major record sales in history. In addition to his own street and open air shows, he has toured and performed in numerous great concert halls, Tv shows, exclusive galas of high society, private and business events. His most recent performance was on Spanish TV on TVÉr Hijos de Babel produced by Zepelin Television where he got a lot of international popularity.

When you talked about Aaron Lordson, you talked about a ball of energy and feeling. This genius would come out on the stage he'd have people clapping hands, with smiling faces, he'd talk to them in a way that it was almost like he was related to them. And when he finished his singing, they were standing.

Everybody love him. And he is a lovable and an approachable person, simple and very natural in all his aspects. Aaron is always very close to his fans with his daily performances to share happiness and emotion with his music. Elegant, charismatic, he is an outstanding singer!.
